Investigation Launched Soon After Accident

Officials Speed Down From Washington and Hurry to Crash Scene.

By FRANK DRAKE.

A thorough investigation into the cause of the wreck of the Eastern Air Lines sleeper early yesterday, in which seven men lost their lives, was launched yesterday morning by officials of the Civil Aeronautics Board within an hour after the dead and injured were removed from the plane wreckage on a wooded hill near Morrow, Ga.

R. F. Nicholson, senior air carrier inspector for this district, and James Douglas, of the Air Safety Board in Washington, flew to Atlanta yesterday and went immediately to the scene of the accident to begin the careful examination of all parts and instruments of the plane.

Frank Caldwell, chief of the Air Safety Board's investigation division, was en route from Washington, as were Robert Crisp, Hal King, both investigators for the board, and James N. Peyton, regional investigator. These experts plan to survey the wreck and its instruments and motors before they are removed from the site, it was said.

Russell Reams, of the air carriers' inspection department in Atlanta, began preliminary investigation and made many measurements and gathered information during the :norning, but said he could make no statement nor give his opinion as to the cause of the accident until he has conferred with other investigators.

Air experts, however, declared and caused the pilot to lose altiworking properly and caused him to think he was higher above the treetops than he was, they said. They added other things may have happened because there are many things which might have gone

The instrument board of the big 16-passenger sleeper was so badly crushed and damaged in the smashup that Reams said inspection of these gadgets probably will reveal nothing. The federal Continued on Page 9, Column 3.

Giant Airliner Was On Candler Beam, Investigators Find.

A congressional investigation into the midnight crash of Eastern Air Lines' sleek $120,000 New York-to-Mexico sleeper ship, in which two Atlantans and five other persons met death yesterday 10 miles south of Atlanta, will be launched next week, Senator Bennett Champ Clark, Democrat, of Missouri, announced in Washington.

Nine passengers were injured. Among them was Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, president of E. A. L. and the most famous American air ace of the first World

Meanwhile, the Civil Aeronautics Board initiated an immediate probe of the crash by dispatching Frank Caldwell, chief of the investigation division here, and aviation officials, who declined the use of their names, laid the crash to one of two things:

1. One motor could have stopped, giving the pilot no time to "feather" his plane and regain the ship's balance; or

2. The ship's altimeter could have been wrong, due to the low barometer which tends to send the think he was flying higher than he actually was.

Ordered to Atlanta.

Caldwell was accompanied by Investigators James Douglas and Harold King, of Washington, and E. N. Townsend, investigator for to Atlanta to assist in the inquiry. As officials of the Office of Prouction Management conferred in Washington, Secretary of Labor Perkins said the union made it 'extremely difficult" for the government to help the situation.

Miss Perkins said she received the "impression" the workers would not strike for at least 48 hours after the Defense Commission sent two representatives to Lackawanna. The strike was

Byron Elected For 2d Term Last Autumn

Plane Crash Victim Defeated Baseball's Walter Johnson.

Forty-five-year-old William D. Byron, Democratic congressman from Maryland who died in yesterday's plane crash, won a second term in congress last fall by defeating baseball's immortal, Walter Johnson, the Big Train, in the Maryland general election.

A veteran of 14 years in politics, he first entered public office in 1926, serving for four years as mayor of Williamsport, Md. In 1930 he was elected to the Mary-land state senate, where he served four years, and in 1934 was named a member of the Maryland Roads

Committee Post.

He was elected to the 76th congress on November 8, 1938, and was re-elected last fall. At the time of his death he was serving as a member of the important Military Affairs Committee of the house.

200 Bombers, Flying Boats A Month Seen

Enormous Plant Expansion Program Rushed by Martin Company.

By JOSEPH S. EDGERTON.

BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 27 .-High-performance twin-engine at-tack and medium bombers and Navy patrol flying boats will be produced at an unofficially estimated rate of nearly 200 month upon the completion of an enormous plant-expansion program, now nearly half completed, by the Glenn L. Martin Co, here at Middle River and at Omaha, Nebraska.

The Omaha plant, assembling Army B-26 bombers from parts and subassemblies man factured in automobile and other factories will produce 100 airplanes a month. The ultimate capacity of the Middle River factories has not been announced, but it probably will not be less than that of the Omaha branch.

The Martin company is concentrating on mass production of three principal types of military airplanes under the national defense and aid-to-Britain programs. They are the new B-26 medium bomber for the Army, the PBM patrol bomber, a flying boat, for the Navy, and the 187 "Baltimore" attack or medium bomber for the Three Types in Production.

All this was a part of the story of Thursday morning as dawn fought with the fog out there on a beautiful, wooded hill some four miles from Josephere where miles from Jonesboro, where one of Eastern Air's huge air liners had crashed at 10 minutes to 12. It had lain there, with four who could walk, with its dead and its terribly wounded, through the rest of the night as searchers went on foot, on horseback, in cars over the fields and hills. They cursed the fog and they cursed their inability to find anyone who had heard the crash closely enough to say where it was

There was the cold, white face of the co-pilot; the bloody mass of the pilot's face.

Rickenbacker's Life Has Been Full of Action

Airline Official Loved Speed; Was Racing Pioneer.

A debonair figure always, direct of speech, dynamic of manner, but pleasant and personable, Edward Vernon (Eddie) Rickenbacker is the beau ideal of an aviator. He likes action, and his 50 years and four months have been crowded with it. Adventure to him is a lot, and he found it wherever he went. Last night he was in a serious condition at Piedmont hospital from injuries received when a giant airliner crashed near Mor-

Even the demands of modern corporate existence, with its routines and unyielding pressures, couldn't nullify the personality of this man who would have been at home, with lance and armor, rid-ing in the van of William the Conqueror's host at Hastings. His clear-cut features, sharp, intelligent eyes and wiry body would have caught most certainly the attention of the chroniclers of the times, and of the great captains. and for centuries his saga would have been a mighty legend.

Pioneer Racer. Pioneer automobile racing driver, top-ranking ace aviator in the first World War, commander of the first American air squadron to e action on the western front, automobile company executive, and, finally, active president of Eastern Air Lines—so runs the thumbnail account of his life. It conveys an accurate impression.

Rickenbacker was born October 8, 1890, in Columbus, Ohio, the son of William and Elizabeth R. Rickenbacker. He grew up with the automobile and was fascinated by its wondrous machinery and the ever-widening vistas it opened for America when the century was very young. Toledano Tells Workers West Must Unite for Democracy.

By BETTY ROSS.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 27 .- "The present war has shown that it is very important for people, all over the world, to have a real democracy governing each country. In order to have this real democracy, we shall support the United States in its aims for British aid. I have no doubt of the soundness of President Roosevelt's plans. Mexico can give him moral and 'economic support."

The speaker is Vicente Lembar-do Toledano, leader of Mexico's General Labor Federation, the C. T. M. Although his term as secretary-general of the federation recently expired, it means no lessening of the power or the pop-ularity of this "best hated man in

"What if an aggressor actually invaded the United States?" he was asked.

"We would go to defend it, guns in hand," he spiritedly declared. "Otherwise, we know very well what to expect as the future fate liberty of each country. But how ironic it would be, if, in order to preserve our liberty, we were to help defeat Fascism—and yet actually lose this liberty to American imperialists!"

Possibly this remark was in-spired by the underlying comments of his critics. The left wing group is now bemoaning his sympathy toward "the greedy, war-mongering imperialists." They do mongering imperiansis. They do not like his ideas of collaborating bruised in my body, but not broken in my spirit."

Barkley said critics should "reserve judgment" until an investi-gation is made. He cited the pres-ence in the ill-fated ship of Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, World War ace and president of Eastern Air Lines, as evidence that the plane was traveling under normal conditions. Certainly, said Barkley, Captain Rickenbacker would not have been on the plane if he had a right to assume anything was amiss as regards either civil aeronautics functions or the ship's air-worthiness. Rescuers Find Grim Reality At Crash Site

Wreckage Seems More Handiwork of Giant Than of Man.

By WILLIAM KEY.

It didn't seem quite real, standing there in the stubble of a Georgia corn field and looking across the slight ravine through the pines. It was more as though a giant had wearied of his toys and has tossed them, tinsel and bauble, into a dusty corner. A silvery flag hung from a great tree. The rest was a crumbled jumble of flashing skein stark against the dark of the wooded slope.

A thick ground fog rolled across the slopes. Those who came gasped, for they saw it suddenly, as though in turning a corner. Fifty paces back it could not be seen, and through the night men had ridden the roads and the fields, in car, on foot, and on horseback, in the search for the skyliner from which no word had come through the long hours of the early morning. They had been near, but not ear enough, Rainy Weather. Air men said in rainy weather like it was when the wreck happened the pressure on the barometer is low and that when the pressure is low it causes the reading on the altimeter to rise. The altimeter is adjustable to this reaction and pilots, by checking over their radios with the weather station at airports, can determine the degree of change in their altimeter reading and set it themselves.

They said they doubted this had been done by Captain Perry and his pilot, because they were di-rectly on the radio beam and were not in voice communication with the airport at the time of the ac-

A radio beam is dots and dashes and when the plane is directly on the beam it sounds in a steady buzz, they asserted. The plane tuned to this buzz, it was thought.

Reams, of the CAB, took compass readings on the wrecked plane's location. Though he refused comment, it was said he found the plane was on its correct course. Residents of the farmhouses surrounding the desolate spot where the sleeper ended up said they hear planes every day and night on this course.

The instrument board of the plane was completely smashed. It was as though someone had taken an ax and slashed into the board, tearing the dials and clocks and meters out by the roots. Some hung from the wreckage by their wires—the faces crushed and the all important needles bent and Officers of the Eastern air Line, of the State Highway Patrol, ununder Captain J. J. Elliott, and of the Fulton county police were guarding the wreckage yesterday from the thousands who came to see and to seek souvenirs. The area around the plane and around the tree where the right wing of the $125,000 ship caught and wrapped was roped off to save the evidence for the official inquiry board.

Debris Litters Site. Pajamas lay strewn about. Towels, sheets and bloody blankets were tangled with twisted steel splintered wood. After the dead and injured were taken away, a pile of their personal belongings—crinkled trousers and coats, brief cases, pocketbooks, valuable and private papers, were collected by C. J. Clark, foreman of maintenance operations of EAL, and stored on the wooded hillside under a tarpaulin to be taken away later in the day and sorted for their proper owners—if they were still alive.

Pine boughs, green with needles, were shoved far back into the workings of the two huge motors as they cut through the trees. One motor looked as though someone had intentionally stuffed it with boughs, so completely was it filled around the cylinders. The metal propellors on both engines were twisted like corkscrews but even the force of the fall had not broken them off.

Only the tail wheel of this plane apparently was undamaged. It stood, without a scratch, point-ing upward above the overturned remains of the plane's fuselage. The rubber tire was evidently not touched as the plane swept to the Illegal Search $48,000-Per-Year Executive Move to Rhodes "Come Live With Me," co-starring James Stewart and Hedy Lamarr, moves to the Rhodes theater today. Evidence Bill Killed in House Ready for $30 Job as Private NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—(AP)—William McChesney MarNEW YORK MCChesney MarNEW YORK MCChesney M tin Jr., who since the summer of 1938 has lived out a colorful story of youthful success as president of the New York Stock Exchange at $48,000 a year, today was putting his affairs in order to enter Uncle Sam's military forces as a buck private.

The 34-year-old executive was notified by his draft board he had been placed in Class 1A and probably would be called for service in May.

In a statement issued at the stock exchange Martin said that "as already indicated, I will resign the presidency of the New York Stock Exchange effective as of the time of my induction into military service."

Bachelor, without dependents and in prime physical health, his induction was regarded as only a matter of time. Today he declared himself "in full sympathy with the selective service law," and added that "naturally many of us who are subject to this law must expect inconvenience but I am sure that many others have been more adversely affected than I." And so, for a year anyway, for the youthful Martin the stock exchange gong which signals the opening and closing of the market will be replaced in his category of familiar sounds by the Army bugle.

Martin's friends around the stock exchange suggested his switch from a $48,000-a-year job to Army pay of around $30 a month would probably be something of a record

Martin's election to the stock exchange presidency made news in 1938, because of his youth. He is rounding out his third one-year term.

Atlanta Belles To Attend Junior Promenade at Yale

• • TWO POPULAR young Atlantans, Betty Haverty and Jacqueline Thiesen, are among the bevy of attractive Georgia belles In New Haven, Conn., to attend the Yale junior promenade. An outstanding event on the undergraduate social calendar, this affair will take place this evening in the Payne Whitney gymnasium at the school. Betty, who is a student at Sweet Briar, and Jacqueline are the envy of their less fortunate friends, for members of collegiate circles consider it a signal honor to rate a bid to this particular event.

Betty is the guest of Archie B. Ragan, who also hails from Atlanta and is a member of the sophomore class. Another Atlantan, Dan Hodgson, is Jacqueline's date for the weekend festivities, which, besides the prom, will include breakfast-dances, sports events, dinner parties, and the presentation of an original musical comedy, with the gaieties coming to a close late Saturday evening.

Adelene Barnett goes to the unior prom on Norman Lyke's bid. Her escort hails from Asheville, N. C., where Adelene lives in the summertime with Mr. and Mrs. Albert Barnett, her parents. At present she is studying at the High Museum of Art in Atlanta.

A nationally famous orchestra will provide music for the prom, which will feature the traditional wooden spoon ceremony, reminiscent of the Yale of the 19th century, the wooden ladle always being presented to the prom chairman by the chairman of the preceding year. The floor will be surrounded by the formal boxes for the fraternity members and their dates, while members of the various undergraduate colleges will be seated in the balcony during the evening.

Included in the group of Georgia belles attending are Nancy Griggs, of Dawson; Martha Lindsey, of Rome, and Nancy Troland, of Fort Benning, all of whom are well known here.

Little Theater group. Though Mrs. Schneider modestly disclaims more than a casual acquaintance with the re-nowned artist, insisting that he would probably not remember her, she is loud in her praises of his ability. "During the Little Theater days," she says, "he was only interested in the scenery and settings for the plays we were doing. At that time his portraits were attracting much attention, and he was also engaged in handcraft and jewelry design-

Mr. Wood, according to Mrs. Schneider, was influential in establishing the Little Gallery in Cedar Rapids, a step in the advancement of art which placed the city well forward in cultural circles. His appearance here in a lecture next Monday evening should definitely put Atlanta in the front ranks of art appreciation. The artist will be intro-duced by Herbert D. Oliver, vice president of the Atlanta Art Association, his lecture on "Regional Art" to assemble the city's art lovers.

picture magazine, is of particular interest to John L. Conner, and all because there is a victure of an American flag on page 14.

The flag is on the desk of none other than President Roosevelt. The photograph shows the President seated at his desk with his press secretary, Stephen T. Early, and is one of a series in the magazine entitled "Look Calls on F. D. R. No. 1 Buffer." On the President's desk are many gadgets, among which is the flag.

The story behind the flag, however, is what thrills John Conner. If you are among the lucky ones whom this well-known businessman remembered at Christmas, you are the proud owner of a small silk flag on a 12-inch standard. Among those to whom Mr. Conner sent flags was President Roosevelt, and when the chief executive acknowledged receipt of the gift, he stated that he was placing it on his desk in the executive office in the White House.

Smartest Styles at One Moderate Price Featured by Butler's, Inc.

A dream of years' standing come true-that is how Butler, Inc., characterizes the smart and modern shoe store which that organization opens today for the first time at 164-66 Peachtree street, opposite the Paramount theater.

Butler, Inc., is a southern organization, with headquarters in Atlanta, and heads of the firm have for several years been intent on opening a store in Atlanta. Preparations for establishing the store were begun as soon as a suitable location became available. Culmination comes today as the lavish new salon-the forty-first in a chain that reaches from Richmond to Miami-throws open its doors to give Atlanta a preview of the well-appointed store and the magnificent stock of one-priced women's shoes which have been assembled for the gala occasion.

The building in which the new store is located has been almost completely made over for this newest addition to the Butler or-ganization. The original idea was to make the Atlanta store—the home store-one of the finest in all the south and no expense or care has been spared in the prideful effort.

two years, Butler, Inc., has maintained its headquarters in Atlanta, operating its big busi-ness from the warehouse and offices at 441 West Peachtree street. Here, more than 100 people are kept busy every day shipping, billing, keeping records, inspect-ing—carrying on all the opera-tions necessary to supplying shoes to the 41 stores which now make up the organization.

A DREAM COME TRUE. Officers of Butler, Inc., are David L. Slann, president; B. A.

Pollock, vice president, and Bernard Feldman, secretary.
Officials declare that an Atlanta store would have been opened years ago but for difficulty encountered in obtaining a suitable location. The first Butler store was opened in West Palm Beach, Fla., in 1926, and from that be-ginning the system has grown to its present size. Atlanta's incomparable freight shipping facilities were given as the reason for mov-ing the headquarters to this city. Butler's was among the first to match bags and shoes and this still remains one of their most popular specialty ideas. Experts in the firm are constantly watching the market for new ideas and suggestions that will add to Butler's tremendous prestige. The new Peachtree store is modern in every detail—with indirect lighting, silk-padded walls and salon-type seating arrangements. Heads of the firm esti-mate that $25,000 was spent in remodeling the building for its new use. Much attention has also been paid to the display windows, especially designed for dis-playing new modes and colors.

Be leading lady of the Easter parade in this really enchanting frock, Pattern 4714 by Lillian Mae. It's simple and easy to make as can be, yet it brims over with newsy touches. First of all, it has a twopiece effect that's right in the mood of the season. The low hipseaming gracefully points up in front for slim, willowly lines, and both the front and back of the skirt are panelled. Notice the beautifully cut bodice, with soft, bust-flattering darts down the center front seam and darts above the back waist. You may add an all-around belt and sew on small buttons for trim. Choose be-tween long, three-quarter or short sleeves. Now "plant" a gay bunch of flowers at your shoulder, put on your prettiest hat and sally forth into spring!

MY DAY: Last Formal Luncheon

By Eleanor Roosevelt. NEW YORK CITY, Wednesday—I gave the last very large and formal luncheon at the White House yesterday, and in the afternoon I attended a tea given by the Episcopal church society. Lady Halifax was in the receiving line, and the photographers, as usual, took this occasion to take as many pictures as they could. I should tell you something about an effort which the National Council of the Protestant Churches is undertaking. Eighteen churches have set up special national committees for the relief of refugees and victims of war. They are going to make their appeal for funds and will carry on all their activities through a co-ordinating committee, and the actual work will be done through already established agencies. Though these funds are being raised by the Protestant churches, there will be no discrimination, either racial or religious, in giving aid. March 2 is the Sunday when this drive for funds will culminate, though as a matter of fact, there will be a continuation of the work all through the year as long as the need exists throughout the world.

Several people came to tea yesterday afternoon. Among them was a most interesting gentleman who has worked out a method whereby, without too much difficulty, you may make your own shoes if you wish. They do not look exactly like custom made shoes, but they are comfortable and people who have a gift with handcrafts will probably find this a new craft to be developed which will prove useful to people not much concerned with fashion.

Last night the President and I, with several other guests, attended a performance in Washington of "The Man Who Came to Dinner," with Mr. Alexander Woollcott playing the part of "Sheridan Whiteside." It was one of the few times I have ever seen the National theater packed, no empty seats were to be seen, I have seen this play before, but there were some changes in lines, and when Mr. Woollcott acts it himself, his appearance adds greatly to the flavor of the scenes. So far as I am concerned, Mr. Woollcott is one of my favorite guests and I hope he will always consider himself not only welcome, but sought after. However, if one incurred his displeasure, the imp in "The Man Who Came to Dinner" might conceivably come forth even in my most welcome guest.

Bond market traders centered op-erations on a few rails and utilities today in a session of mixed Major activity hinged around

International Telephone 5s, up 1 3-4 points at 44 1-4, and 4 1-2s, up 3 1-2 at 42 1-4; Baltimore & Ohio stamped convertible 6s, off 1-2 at 19 1-8; St. Paul 5s, up 1-2 at 7 1-4 and Missey, Kenney at 7 1-4, and Missouri-Kansas-Texas 5s of '62, up 3-4 at 16 7-8. Active buying of United States governments shortly after the opening sent quotations as much as half a point higher in both the stock exchange and over the counnoon. All action on the federals ceased in the stock exchange and over-the-counter trading ended at 4 p. m., an hour after the exchange close, with most treasury change close, with most treasury prices 1-32 and 2-32 point off from yesterday. The major exception was the new taxable 2 per cent of 1948-50 which closed over-the-counter at 101 4-32 bid and 101 6-32 asked, 201/4 up 6-32 and 7-32, respectively, from the previous close.

Belgian government bonds made strong gains, the 7s climbing 9 points to 67, while the 6 1-2s went up 5 to 60. Japanese and French issues also advanced somewhat.
Transactions totaled $6,482,800, face value, compared with $6,744,-100 yesterday.

Agriculture Office Ready For Emergency

Turbulent Years Find Federal Department at Its Best.

By A. A. HOEHLING.

American Newspaper Alliance. WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.-National emergencies are something the United States Department of Agriculture thrives on.

Born in the turbulent years of the War Between the States, this federal agency, once little more than a glorified grain-dispensing country store, has set its collective shoulder and its collective mind against a succession of endless and diversified problems, from matters affecting isolated sections to crises which have had potential strength to wreck a na-

It has found no peace in its almost seventy-nine years of existence, and yet, scarred by such battles as those with the boll weevil, with cattle disease, and with dying, dust-consumed farm lands, it has grown to a stature which commands at least a place equal to that of any branch of the federal government. The department again has pitched its tent and set up its own heavy artillery beside its brothers, the Army and the Navy, and is looking ahead with the realization that it is today better prepared for trouble than ever in its history.

Definite Role.

In addition to supplying the materials which feed and clothe an army, the department will have a definite role in molding the actual armaments of this latest of Uncle Sam's many and notable fighting machines-a role unprecedented except for certain work in the World War.

With gunpowder and liquid fire, with synthetic gasoline and air-plane plastics, it will help to render the nation strong against attack. With a full knowledge of substitutes for almost every war essential which we import, it will baffle attempts to cut off our markets. With improved methods of refrigeration it will store thousands of tons of frozen foods to thwart the menace of starvation.

The World War afforded a preview of the big business which the Department of Agriculture has become today.

The three years preceding our entry into the conflict in 1917 had resulted in a vast drain upon agricultural stores and we had a serious deficiency of foodstuffs. Production Boom

Through the efforts of the farmers, guided by the department, production of agriculture slowly began to boom again, until by the end of the war it was skyrocketing. Cereals in 1919 were 635,000,-000 bushels ahead of the big crop of 1914, dairy cows had increased 2,700,000 head, swine by 16,-700,000, and other cattle by 8,-

The Bureau of Chemistry gave aid to our armed forces through research in airplane dopes, waterproofing and fireproofing of materials, refining of wood turpentine, leather tanning, and development of various types of paper and fiber containers.

The Weather Bureau did great service for our ships of the air as well as those of the sea.

However, we did not realize until the '30's that production of agriculture had gone too fast in the cyclonic years of the war. Then, as people by the thousands began to desert their worthless farms, we understood how topsoil had been ruined in the press for speed, how lands had been planted which never should have been touched by the plow. And so there came another and extremely grave national emergency which was the personal property of the Depart-ment of Agriculture. How it met the crisis of the '30's is still current history.

Now it is preparing to aid the nation in another time of stress Here are some of the things it is

Wars are a terrible drain on forests, and so, of course, are total defense preparations. The forest service of the department is hard at work day and night as hundreds of thousands of trees are felled in our forests to bolster the ramparts of this nation and those of Great Britain. It must keep constant check on our supply of various woods, must see to the replanting of new trees. The service must be prepared to advise the Army, the Navy, or the Defense Commission on moment's notice not only which lumber is best suited for a certain purpose, but how great is the supply. Chemically, the service has to keep up-to-date on such by-prod-ucts of wood as gunpowder and writing paper. Recently, labora-tory researchers have discovered a method by which Alpha Cellulose (smokeless powder when treated with nitric acid) can be extracted from wood in a 15 per cent greater quantity than before

It has been estimated we could safely sell to other countries as much as 150,000,000 bushels of wheat, 400,000,000 bushels 500,000,000 pounds of lard, and 250,000,000 pounds of other edible fats and large quantities of fresh, dried, and canned fruits and vegetables

Real Independence.
The Bureau of Agricultural Chemistry and Engineering has recently reported that the United States need not be dependent upon the import of any of our es-sential raw materials. Perfected or in course of development now are methods by which the following synthetics can be pro-

Starch from sweet potatoes, tanning materials from our western hemlock tree; wool from milk ca-sein, drying oils out of linseed instead of tung and perilla which come from the orient; sugar from phor and soap from the southern pine tree; rubber from sugar; and

Bullitt Calls Zachry Outlines ForDeclaration Of Emergency

Speed Up Arms or Take That Step, Former Envoy Urges.

NEW YORK, Feb. 27,-(A)-The Immediate declaration of a "national emergency" was advocated tonight by William C. Bullitt, former ambassador to France and Soviet Russia, unless production is stepped up to war speed by other means.

"We could double our planned output of airplanes and tanks and merchant ships and guns in 1942 if we would but buckle to the task, Bullitt said in a speech prepared for the Overseas Press Club of

"By not producing as fast as if we were in war," he declared, "we are risking the whole future of our nation, the whole heritage which our fathers left in our trust for unborn generations—we are risking even our independence.

"If we cannot now get into pro-duction at war speed without the declaration of a national emergency, I, for one, favor the immediate declaration of a national

The first United States ambassador to Soviet Russia after the resumption of diplomatic relations with that country in 1933, Bullitt linked Russia with Germany, Italy and Japan as nations from whose rulers "we can expect neither honor nor mercy in their dealings with us or with any other nation."

He said that "whatever there was of idealism in the Soviet Union was rooted out by Stalin" and that what remained was an "Asiatic despotism," differing only from the "European despotism of the Nazis" in that it was less effi-

The world after the war, Bullitt said, "will be directed either from Berlin or from Washington and London." "The Soviet dictator, quaking in his Kremlin, is too weak, morally and physically, to win even a jackal's victory over corpses, he asserted.

Says Willkie Promised Aid Before Election

Senator Danaher's Charge Stirs Denial by Mrs. Reid.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—(P) Senator Danaher, Republican, Connecticut, told the senate today that Wendell L. Willkie pledged support for "all-out" aid to Brit-ain at a pre-election dinner at the York home of Mrs. Ogden

"Before he (Willkie) ever got Times and the New York Trib-une," Danaher said, "the gentle-man, at a dinner up in New York at the home of Mrs. Ogden Reid not only pledged the support of himself to the all-out aid program but to what was necessary guarantee that Britain would not

"That is what he promised up there and on the strength of it the New York Tribune came out for the candidate and on the strength of it the New York Times came out for the candidate. Mr. Julius Ochs Adler, publisher the Times, was present, heard the candidate and then came out for him when he made that proposition, and, as I recall it, Mr. Lewis Douglas was the man who asked him the question, which led the candidate to declare his stand."
In New York, Mrs. Reid issued

the following statement:
"Senator Danaher has been misinformed. Mr. Willkie did dine at my home last spring, but whatsoever in regard to aid to

"Furthermore, at no other time did he make any such pledge to me or to the Herald-Tribune."

Eight Million Acres Used for Defense Work WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—(P)— Secretary Ickes said today that the federal government had created a symbolic 49th state—"the state of national defense"—containing 8,-184,928.54 acres of public land from Florida to Alaska. This land, withdrawn from the ublic domain for emergency mil-000 acres larger than the com-bined areas of Massachusetts. Delaware, Rhode Island and the District of Columbia, Ickes said. It is used for rifle ranges, combat training, antiaircraft practice, aerial bombing, artillery practice and ammunition depots.

Among the withdrawals were 758 acres in Florida assigned to the Navy Department.

What Is Behind It?

It is more than unfortunate, it is tragic, that workers in important defense industries should be going out on strike at this time. Latest strike is called of the CIO workers at the huge Lackawanna plant of the Bethlehem Steel corporation, working on defense orders. Likewise threats of a strike are made against the Ford Motor Company, another key plant in the nation's effort to halt Hitler and to defend the country.

It is disficult to believe that responsible heads of the unions would permit themselves, and their organizations, to be used as tools of Fifth Columnists. Yet the frequency of such strikes cannot but arouse this suspicion, and fear, in the minds of all normal citizens.

It is almost as difficult to believe that organized labor would be so insensible to the national emergency, and very real peril, as to use that emergency as a lever to compel the closed shop. That would be, in final analysis, a use of the national danger to further selfish, class ends and to those of us who have felt sympathy for the unions and have seen the justice of the union side of various issues that have risen, it is deeply disappointing and discouraging.

Of course, if management of industry has, on its part, taken advantage of the emergency to attempt to impose injustices in wages or conditions of work there is more excuse for the strikes. Even then, though, with all the legal channels open to labor today, with the National Labor Relations Board and its authority, there can be no real necessity for strikes which delay the creation of the national armor or delay the shipment to Britain of materials upon which hinge the fate of freedom the world over.

Organized labor has, in recent years, gained a prestige and an authority that has made the American working man the envy, not only of workers of like type in other parts of the world, but of many classes of fellow citizens in this country. Despite the undeniable fact that unscrupulous, even criminal, leaders in some unions have exploited the very members of their ow: unions, have fattened upon compulsory dues and assessments, the general public has felt strong sympathy for the cause of labor as a whole and has only hoped that grounds for criticism would be removed by a house-cleaning on the part of labor itself.

All organized labor stands in danger today, however, of losing that public sympathy and of drawing upon its head the condemnation of all informed Americans, if it persists in a policy of striking, either for class advantage or for unjustifiable extortion from the tax payers who must pay the cost of defense or-

Should labor, setting an example of unity for the entire country to follow, abandon the strike as a weapon for the period of the emergency and depend upn the rulings of the NLRB and other governmental agencies, and upon the weight of public opinion, for just treatment, it would immediately gain such strength in the American system that, after the world emergency has passed, there would be practically no limit to the privileges and benefits a grateful nation would bestow.

For Health Education

On Friday next, March 7, the Woman's Auxiliary of the Fulton County Medical Society will hold its annual health meeting. It will take place in the auditorium of the new nurses' home of the Crawford Long hospital, at 543

Presidents and representatives of all women's organizations in Atlanta and in the county have been invited to attend. The importance of the occasion can scarcely be overemphasized.

There will be panel discussion of some of the most important aspects of public health in Atlanta, with some of the outstanding physicians listed as speakers and leaders. Dr. Glenville Giddings, health education chairman of the Fulton County Medical Society, will preside and the meeting has been arranged by Mrs. W. M. Dunn, health education chairman of the auxiliary, and the health committees of the Social Planning Council and the medical

The importance of public health can never be over-emphasized, but at this period in the national history it assumes greater significance than ever before. Irrespective of whether America is ever actively involved in the world revolution now raging over so much of its surface, it is inevitable that this nation faces years ahead which will call for the finest service and most unselfish sacrifice by all citizens. And neither man nor woman in poor health can give their best for any cause.

Constant reiteration upon the primary warnings and teachings about the most prevalent diseases among us must be patiently continued. Parents must be advised, and urged, to keep constant check upon the health of their children so, if some dread disease should strike, they would be forewarned. Without fullest effort to maintain good health of the entire community, it is futile, in these days of close intermingling of society, to expect to maintain one's own health or the health of the immediate family.

The Woman's Auxiliary, composed of the wives of doctors of the County Medical Society, is performing invaluable service in serving as the shock troops for the health education of the community. They, perhaps better than any other group of women, know the danger and know the constant vigilance required to meet it and overcome it.

Indiscreet

It would be extremely foolish for anyone in this country to work up an anti-German indignation because of the incident in a Sofia restaurant, in which United States Minister George H. Earle was involved. That is, if the news reports about the little affair are correct.

According to these reports Minister Earle asked the restaurant orchestra—even insisted on it-to play "Tipperary." It is astonishing that a man of his experience should have done such a thing. There could have been no objection if he had asked for the playing of the "Star-Spangled Banner," "Dixie" or "Yankee Doodle." But to make an issue of the playing of a British war song, in a country about to be invaded by Germany, in a restaurant with many German officers present, was the height of indiscretion. It was parallel to a request, from a German consular agent in this country, for the playing of the Horst Wessel song at a Jewish festival. Much worse, today, than a request from a northern visitor in Georgia for the playing of "Marching Through Geor-

The Nazis have given the whole world, including and, in some respects, especially America, ample cause for deepest resentment. But this incident in a Sofia cafe is certainly nothing to get all hot and bothered over. Minister Earle seems to have invited trouble.

It comes out in a New York lawsuit that an estate of $4,000,000 was left by a glue king. If he can't take it with him, who can?

Georgia Editors Say: GEORGIA CRIMINALS MOVE ON FLORIDA (From The Albany Herald)

Florida continues to worry about the influx of criminals from Georgia. Of the hundreds freed from Georgia prisons during the latter part of the Rivers administration, many have felt that the Georgia climate might not prove exactly conso they have been moving out in considerable numbers. Florida is "just over the line," it is a fairly liberal state, and it is not surprising that a good many of Georgia's ex-prisoners have

Jacksonville reports something akin to a carnival of crime. The cost of police protection has up, robberies and homicides have increased, and the authorities are worrying not a little

Such things don't just happen, the Florida Times-Union thinks. There must be a "deepseated cause," and this cause should be determined and removed so that the former feeling of security can be restored. The Jacksonville paper believes that the cause lies partly in Florida but more largely in Georgia. .

HOPKINS TO CO-ORDINATE DEFENSE? WASHING-TON, Feb. 27. Formation of a central co-ordinating office, to tie together all the complex manifestations of the defense effort, is being seriously considered by the President. If the plan goes through, moreover, there is a pretty fair chance that Harry L. Hopkins will be named to the position of co-ordinator.

This possibility is probably what has given rise to the recurrent reports that a "super-defense agency" would soon be created. Actually, nothing so grandiose is intended. Besides the service departments and the Office of Production Management, uncounted other agencies, ranging from the Office of the Administrator of Export Control and the Export-Import Bank to the RFC and the Treasury, have important defense duties. At present there is no shadow of co-ordination, except such as can be supplied by the President in his spare time. Conflicts are interminable. Situations are continually arising in which nothing but the decisive word of single reasonably sensible person is needed to prevent endless delay. Yet the delays continue.

Trouble-shooting, rather than general directive activity, will be the task of the central co-ordinating office if it is established. Of course central co-ordinating offices commonly only complicate matters, since they rarely have as much authority as the agencies whose differences they are supposed to mediate. If Hopkins is well enough to be the co-ordinator, however, this case ought perhaps to be different. Hopkins is the President's closest friend, only man who can speak for the White House with anything like real authority. Except on major issues, few officials will care to pursue their feuds, if the price is the disfavor of the President's crony and constant companion.

HOPKINS' STATUS Hopkins' very special position causes the significance of everything he does to be vastly exaggerated. His visit to England, for example, has been widely portrayed as a mission from the left-wingers of the New Deal to the left-wingers of the British labor party. Actually, there were only two reasons for it. In the first World War, enmity had arisen between the President and Winston Churchill and it was crucially necessary that all lingering ill-feeling be smoothed away and that a close personal liaison be established between the two men. Hopkins was chosen to undertake the job partly because he was well suited to it by his peculiar talents and partly because he very much wanted something to do.

No doubt the excitement will be intense if Hopkins is named co-ordinator, or given some other title carrying with it co-ordina-Yet, although it is a good bet his appointment will be portrayed as another defeat for the businessmen employed on national defense, the fact is that a good many of the businessmen think the idea a pretty sensible one.

For some time, indeed, leading figures in the Office of Production Management have been discussing the possibility of persuading Hopkins to act as a link between them and the White House. Most of them know him well, and see him regularly. They find they have no difficulty in talking to him. And they want someone to whom they can take problems not important enough to bother the with, yet requiring some assurance of the President's approval to be efficiently settled.

This desire to make Hopkins a link between the QPM and the White House was, of course, the reason for his appointment to the OPM's production planning board. Despite the prominence given reports of its formation, the board itself is almost certain to come one of those gassy, formless bodies with grandiose titles but few duties which are so common in our government. In truth, the most meaningful thing about the board is probably the clusion of Hopkins on the initiative of the businessmen in the OPM.

OTHER CANDIDATES The main obstacle to Hopkins' appointment as defense trouble-shooter or co-ordinator is his health, which is still far from good. If he does not feel equal to the task, there are plenty of other candi-One is William C. Bullitt, who has long been mentioned in White House circles as a possible "speeder-upper" of defense. Another is Bernard M. Baruch, whose rich experience from the days of the first World War is already informally available to the men in charge of the defense effort.

Possibly none of these three will be the final choice. Possibly no co-ordinator will be named at all. The plans for shaking up the defense effort are multiplying daily on the President's desk, and a new one that will charm him may be handed in any morning. One thing must be plain, however, to all persons reasonably informed about the defense effort's progress. While no "super-defense agency" is required, some system of effective co-ordination is desperately needed and, until it is supplied, the defense effort will progress more by good luck than good management.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

WASHINGTON, Editors that everyone As Patriots else has said a little say about President Roosevelt's recent chiding of the newspaper publishers for printing military information received from statesmen who may have violated a seal of confidence. I will neatly dispose of the matter as iollows:

Newspaper publishers are not censors but editors, and, with the exception of a few brash adventurers, there is no more patriotic group of men in the country, nor any group with a stronger motive for preserving the American nation as a republic, under capitalism, which is the only system that tolerates and affords a living for a free press.

The publishers are, as a group, no less wise or honest than the members of the two professions which President Roosevelt himself has adorned, namely, the law, which he operated as a Wall Street attorney, and politics, in which he collaborated with Hague, of Jersey City; Kelly, of Chicago; Pendergast, of Kansas City, and the political heirs of Huey P. Long, in Louisiana.

Indicated President Roosevelt has consistently indi-Hostility cated hostility to the American kind of press, while utilizing it for his political purposes, and the persistency of his campaign to discredit kind of press naturally prompts consideration of the alternative.

We all know in our business that, in numbers the American daily press is declining as a consequence of rising costs, including taxes and the slow-down movement in the mechanical trades, and the loss of advertising revenue to the radio.

The radio is subject to strict government control and may be propaganda platters for the administration, but has no editorial character and never, of its own initiative, would uare expose Jimmy Roosevelt's insurance connections or scrutinize Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt's political activities.

Editorially. Radio Blank radio is blank and a Editorially servile thing which in foreign lands has been used to enslave people, whereas the worst enemies of the American press unwittingly give the publishers credit for great moral and financial courage when they denounce it for opposing the Roosevelt administration. For certainly, if the press were servile, the publishers would have tried to placate the New Deal, knowing its great power and vindictiveness, instead of antagonizing it.

At this moment, too, some pubishers, right or wrong, are taking a great risk in opposing the leaselend bill, because they are being denounced as appeasers and an task of study, of gaining a degree, American Cliveden set, and this is or learning all they can in the dangerous propaganda against them in communities where the

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH McGILL.

"WHAT A GUY!" Several times it has been my pleasure to go on flights with Eddie Rickenbacker.

Once we had breakfast in New York, lunch in New Orleans and were back in New York an hour before dinner that same day. Another time we inaugurated international service from New York to Mexico City, flying through the night and into the next day to Mexico City.

Once we were together when the airline was opened from Atlanta to Tampa.

One of the big thrills of my time was sitting with him in plane, a nonpassenger flight, when he was, for a time, at the controls.

I thought of him, the greatest war hero this country had, flying and fighting those old crates of the first World War, and there I was beside him in one of the great modern planes. All over the world people know Eddie Rickenbacker. They know him and like him. They know him for a great guy. And some time, in the dark horror of Wednesday night, he proved it again. He was riding one of his great sleeper planes when, in the fog and the night, the plane, for some reason perhaps never to be explained, crashed into trees and into the earth, killing seven.

He was pinned across the body of his flight steward for more than five hours, unable to move. His own body was broken. Yet, in the minutes after the crash, when he heard someone asking for matches to be struck, he called out to them not to strike There was spilled gas matches. The gasoline fumes were heavy. everywhere. A match would have started a fire which would have burned to death all those within the plane who still lived. "We'll do what you say, Eddie," someone called out. And they did. He kept up their courage until his own strength ebbed and those first to reach him thought him dead or so near death it did not matter.

A GREAT GUY I have written, somewhere else in the paper something of this. Always I have admired him. And having seen him and talked with him when he was removed from that shattered plane, I know how he took it. His words to me were about the good job being done by the men removing the living and dead from the plane What a guy! An ace in the first World War-and an ace every minute, every day since. ALWAYS A BATTLER Eddie always has been made of tough stuff. He was a race driver, driving his own car, in 1909. He was always a "lead-footed guy," as the race drivers say. He kept his foot on the gas—a front runner as long as the car would hold together.

went over a few fences, over a few walls, turned over on tracks here and there.

In 1914 he took a car and drove it 114 miles an hour on the sands at Daytona. And if you think that wasn't fast in those days-when they were just learning to build motors and cars-you are very wrong indeed.

When they turned him down at the beginning of the World War when he tried to organize a flying corps, he enlisted. Pershing grabbed him and made him his driver When he could, he got into an aviation school and soloed after 12 lessons. On May 2, 1918, he shot down his first German. He ended up with 21 planes and four balloons to his credit, the greatest American ace.

He made the Eastern Air Lines one of the great airlines of the world. And its safety record, even with the crash of yesterday, is the outstanding safety record among major airlines. There were many courageous persons in that wreck. two of them come out-Eddie Rickenbacker and H. A. Littledale.

There is a story elsewhere in the paper about him and how he, newspaperman, told his story even though he was numb with cold and suffering terribly from injuries. HOW IT HAPPENED It was a terrible night. Police, state troopers, newspapermen and others hunted through the heavy fog until morning when the plane was found. With flashlights we walked over vast stretches of fields, the lights cutting through only a few feet of the fog.

Later we drove cars, hunting persons who had heard the crash. Many of the searchers more than once were within 300 yards of the plane. But, so dense was the fog and darkness, and so silent was the scene of the wreck, no one saw it on any of those hunts. The plane plunged into a thick grove of pines, shearing off many of them, shattering others. No one can say how it happened. It appeared, from the looks of things, that the plane, in making a turn, had lost enough altitude in the fog and darkness to strike the tallest tree tops on the highest point of land in that section. Seconds later, before anyone realized what had happened, the wings were torn off and the plane crashed.

Looking at it, one knew that only by a miracle could anyone come from it alive. There were a number of pilots there when the body of the ship's pilot was removed. I heard one of them, sorrowful of face, turn to his friend and say, "Well, he might have got it in an automobile just as easily. He was right. Year by year planes get safer and safer. One accident wipes out the memory of years of safety. That is but temporary. Looking at the wreck and at those who lived, one could be fatalist enough to say that one goes when one's number is up. Not before.

Speculations Concerning the World We Cannot See

BY ROBERT QUILLEN.

Along about the time Columbus was discovering a new world, a man named Leonardo, greatest genius of all time, discovered by means of reason alone that all physical matter is composed of the Modern scientists, using the harder but more convincing method of experiment, trial and error, have reached the same conclusion. All matter is composed of atoms, so small they cannot be seen with an ordinary microscope. These atoms are of many kinds, and when they are assembled in different proportions they form different substances. One combination makes coal, another gold, another milady's fingernail. But these microscopic atoms are not solids. Each is a little universe, with many minute bodies whirling around a central magnet. the whole held together by the same force that holds our universe together-whatever that is.

The whirling little bodies in the atom are called protons and electrons—names being necessary since ideas must have labels. And these little bodies are not solids, either, but units of energy.

If everything is composed of atoms, and atoms are composed of units of energy, then nothing in the universe is solid matter but only energy arranged in different forms. Having come thus far, we can see our way to farther horizons. Lightning is energy. Thought is energy. And if matter is nothing more than energy, then the bolt that flashes from the sky and the brain energy that composes a line of poetry and the iron in a bridge are one and the same. And these are merely other forms of the same energy that composes all matter in the earth. Now the creation of the universe becomes comprehensible. How could life appear on an earth that was lately a white-hot molten ball? How could it be brought through freezing space from other planets? That was incredible. But energy, which is everywhere in the universe, could be assembled in different arrangements to make any substance or living creature. If everything is composed of energy, is it all a part of the Divine Energy which created and now controls the universe? It would be strange if the science which "disproved God" should end by proving that the Power of God is manifested in all things that exist.

Registers Protest On Swank Weddings Just at Rush Hour

You've got to know your geogon a Sunday or an afternoon when a swank wedding is being pulled off.

There are three churches pretty well bunched—Episcopal, Baptist and Catholic. Their congregations arrive in cars—which must be parked. All on a Sunday morning. And an afternoon or so ago, when I was in a hurry to get some dog food before the Buckhead store closed up, I ran into the guests of Martha de Golian's wedding-with several traffic cops struggling with the throng. It was around 5:30—the homebound rush

In the Columbus Enquirer-in W. C. Tucker's column—is a letter from Mr. and Mrs. Laskey, of Fort Benning—the first we ever read from the "other side." It's worth printing in full, I think:

"One night, not so long ago, we were riding. Over in Phenix City a precious little brown dog suddenly darted out of the darkness, directly into the path of our car and ere was no way to avoid him.

"Our boy has a pet dog and we know how heartbroken he would be under similar circumstances, so we want the owner of this little deceased animal to know how sorry we are that this had to hap-pen. We would not intentionally kill anyone's pet and it would trouble us much to know that we had brought tears to the eyes, or an ache to the heart of any child."

Fashion commentator says top hats for men are coming back into style. Maybe. For some. But the hatters had better get together with the automobile manufacturers. Again Eastern Increases Its Service In and Out of Atlanta. .. Effective Tomorrow—"Commuter Flights" in Both Directions! Now 7 Daily to Washington and New York-4 Daily to New Orleans and Houston-3 Daily to Birmingham

With the additional services which Eastern Air Lines inaugurates today, Atlanta is fast becoming the "aircommuting" center of the country!

A total of 5 new flights has been added from your city-3 daily to Birmingham, others to Washington-New York (making a total of 7), and to New Orleans-Houston (making a total of 4). Included is a faster daylight trip for you to "Go North by Eastern" as well as an early evening trip for you to "Go South by Eastern."

These new flights perfectly complement the schedules from Atlanta that Eastern Air Lines already provides, which also offers direct service to other points including Chicago and St. Louis without change of plane.

So wherever and whenever you want to make a trip, you now have more reason than ever to "Go North or Go South by Eastern." You'll find that from Atlanta you can commute in both directions by air via The Great Silver Fleet.

Tech Loses to Tide, 39-33, as Kentucky, Vols and Vandy Win

A Problem Manager Paul Richards is going to have a time getting his Cracker batterymen to concentrate on baseball next week at St. Augustine, Fla. And the reason is that Louise Suggs, Georgia woman's champion and one of the most promising of the nation's young lady golfers, will be entered in the annual golf tournament in the Ancient City.

Most of the top-flight feminine stars of the country, excepting National Champion Betty Jameson, of San Antonio, Texas, and Dot Kirby, Atlanta, will compete in the tournament.

Miss Suggs already has won a winter tournament in Florida and a victory at St. Augustine might establish the Lithia Springs miss as a definite threat in the national tournament. Win or lose, however, Louise will not lack for support at St. Augustine. And it presents quite a problem for Manager Richards, who also likes to see good golf.

It presents a problem in diplomacy, too. The Crackers, being from the same community, cannot afford to snub Miss Suggs. And yet they cannot afford to ignore the primary purpose for being in a baseball camp.

Maybe Mr. Earl Mann and I can work it out. We can epresent the Crackers at the golf tournament and relieve lanager Paul Richards of this social responsibility.

The Last Straw It was like pulling teeth for Doc Prothro to part with Kirby Higbe a year ago. Up to the point when Highe was peddled to Brooklyn because the cash was needed, the Phils had pitching, if nothing else.

It was tough parting with Higbe, but Doc still had Hugh Mulcahy. He contended no team in baseball had a better pair of pitchers than Higbe and Mulcahy. And he still had Mulcahy.

Now Uncle Sam's got Mulcahy. And Doc Prothro most likely is at the point of utter despair. Without Mulcahy, the Phils are even more hopeless, which is saying a lot. Well, Doc's a director in the new Memphis setup and it should be no trick at all for him to persuade other directors to give him another "time at bat" as manager of the Chicks. There's not much point in carrying on in a hopeless cause, and that's how it is at Philadelphia.

Good Sign Charles Harrell called the other day and said things are probably going to be a lot better for the Memphis Chicks now. One of the new owners is Joe Verret, who managed the Ozbun-Aboston auto

Injury to Regular Jockey Puts Meade on Bimelech Saturday

Don Will Ride Bradley Horse In $50,000 Run

Victory Streak of Rookie McCreary Gives Him Spot in Widener.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 27.—(P)—Dashing Don Meade, long the leading jockey at Hialeah park and an old favorite of Owner E. R. Bradley, drew the prized assignment of riding highly favored Bimelech in the $50,000 Widener stake Saturday.

An old shoulder injury has been bothering F. A. Smith, who urged the big bay to his great triumphs as a two-year-old and a three-year-old, and a change in riders was decided upon.

Meade was the natural choice. He won the 1933 Kentucky Derby for Bradley with Broker's Tip, and the elderly sportsman long has liked Meade's heady horse handling.

Bimelech and Meade got acquainted with each other last Saturday. The combination scored with ease in a $2,500 trial race. The victory was one of 40 for Meade in the first 43 days of the Hialeah meeting.

Only young jockey to crash the select group of those entrusted with mounts in the big stake was Lilliputian Conn McCreary, a recent graduate from apprentice ranks, who took the lead among Hialeah jockeys from Meade by virtue of two victories today. TO HANDLE HALTAL.

He will handle the Woodvale Farm's Haltal, which got in at low weight of 108 pounds—to 126 for Bimmy—and will carry a wad of longshot money.

supply company in Atlanta back in the early twenties. Mr.

Harrell used to call on him here.

It occurred to Mr. Harrell that this Atlanta connection might prove beneficial to the Chickasaws. The theory is that any time anyone does anything worth while, Atlanta usually figures in it. If one tried hard enough, perhaps, Fulton and Edison and Bell and all the great inventors of history could be con-nected with the Gate City. The mere fact that Joe Engel once tried in collaboration with Washington to own the Atlanta baseball club later resulted in Chattanooga winning pennants.

Memphis has been coming close in recent years, but close doesn't count in baseball. And Joe Verret, who has an Atlanta connection, may prove the difference.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 27.—
(AP)—The New York Yankees' workout was lifted out of the day-to-day routine today by the fact that players and special tators alike realized Johnny Sturm, up from Kansas City, will be the American Leaguers' regular first baseman unless he shows he can't hold the job.

Sturm, moved up a notch through the sale of Babe Dahlgren to the Boston Bees, was the center of attraction throughout today's session, which included a snappy infield workout, Only Pitcher Atley Donald did not show up. He is troubled with a lame back.

The list of Yankee holdouts was reduced by one when the New York office phoned Manager Joe McCarthy that Catcher Bill Dickey had accepted terms, Dickey, recuperating from the flu at Little Rock, Ark., will be late in reporting.

Gallup Finds Number of American Voters Who Favor Outright Passage Falls to 55%, a Decrease of 3% Since February 14. By DR. GEORGE GALLUP, Director, American Institute of Public Opinion. Copyright, 1941.

PRINCETON, N. J., Feb. 27.—Public sentiment for President Roosevelt's lease-lend bill as measured by an Institute survey has shown a slight decline since the senate debate of the measure began two weeks ago. Coincidental with the sharp attack on the bill by the senate isolationist bloc, the number of American voters who favor outright passage of the bill has dropped to 55 per cent -a decrease of three percentage points since the Institute's last survey reported February 14. However, the number who favor passage is still more than twice as large as the number in outright opposition to the bill. To measure the effect of the arguments pro and con, the American Institute of Public Opinion interviewed a representative sample of the nation's voters during the period February 16 through 24, using the following question:

"Do you think congress should pass the President's lease-lend more than nine persons in every ten had-is as follows: Feb. 9 Feb. 14 Today Qualified Opinions 11

In all three surveys the persons giving qualified answers comonly stressed their desire for a time limit in the bill, for a pro vision against ships or convoys abroad, and a provision against sending an American expeditionary force. With the time-limit provision now in both the senate and house versions of the bill, the proportion of qualified answers has dropped somewhat, as the

Apparently the heated senate debate and threatened filibuster have had two specific effects on public opinion concerning the bill First, the number definitely in favor of the bill, without qualifications, has dropped from 58 per cent to 55 per cent.

Second, as the debate goes on, the number of persons who are uncertain in their attitude toward the bill increases, as evidenced by the fact that the "no opinion" vote is today double what it was two weeks ago.

A decline of sentiment for the lease-lend bill is observable the rank and file of both Democrats and Republicans.

Council Group Orders Drive Against Vice

Committee Fears Atlanta May Become 'Another Phenix City.'

Ordering an intensive and consistent campaign against bug operators, beer joints having unsavory reputations and vice conditions to prevent Atlanta from becoming "the Phenix City of Georgia," city council's police committee last night voted to ask county officials to co-operate in the projected clean-up.

Police Chief M. A. Hornsby was instructed to contact Solicitor General John A. Boykin and County Commissioner I. Gloer Hailey, chairman of the commission's police committee, to launch a concerted campaign before "conditions beome so bad here that we will receive a lot of un-

Immediately after ordering the clean-up, the committee told Hornsby to ignore the city per-sonnel board in filling a position as typist clerk in the police sta-tion and to designate a supernumerary. A. H. Campbell,, who has held the post, was transferred to the traffic department.

Carl T. Sutherland, personnel director who now is away on a military leave of absence, informed police officials on February 18 that he would not approve the payroll if the post were not filled by the city personnel board in accordance with the civil service law.

Ralph McGill, executive editor of The Constitution, was named chairman of the new police examining board, with C. L. Sharp, banker, and J. O. Mangum, mer-chant, as other members. Mrs. Bessie O'Quinn was electpernumerary of policewomen.

20-Mile Train Needed To Haul Chemicals, Seed.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. ATHENS, Ga., Feb. 27.-It would require a train 20 miles long to deliver the limestone, 20 cent superphosphate. winter legume seed obtained by Georgia farmers under the AAA grant-of-aid pilan in 1940, T. R. Breedlove, administrative officer of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, estimated today.

Breedlove pointed out that 70,000 tons of liming material was distributed to some 10,000 state farmers last year, compared to only 10,000 tons the year before. Also 17,500 tons of superphosphate were obtained by farmers, in con-trast to 200 tons in 1939.

Much of the land receiving lime and superphosphate was planted to winter legumes, and this prac-tice resulted in the planting of more than 10,000,000 pounds of Austrian winter pea seed under the AAA grant-of-aid plan, the AAA official said. Farmers throughout the country planted 338,000,000 pounds of Austrian peas under the same plan.

"Under the conservation materials program, Georgia farmers may obtain from the AAA such materials as phosphate, ground limestone, winter legume seed, and in some counties, terracing is offered," Breedlove explained. "These materials are used in carrying out certain conservation practices. The cost of such materials is deducted from payments which farmers would otherwise receive."

Distribution of conservation materials aids in carrying out the regular practice provisions of the AAA program, through which farmers receive cash payments for approved soil-building prac-tives, the Georgia AAA officer

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

Staff Correspondent.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—The deductions not to exceed $27 per defense housing program is being geared into the permanent housing needs of the nation, and every effort will be made to avoid, during this emergency, building which will leave ghost towns after the emergency is over, Charles F. Palmer, co-ordinator of national defense housing, announced today.

The former chairman of the Atlanta Housing Authority explained that where defense employ-ment is temporary and communities cannot be expected to absorb the new housing permanently, de-mountable housing units will be built. In communities where normal growth creates a need for additional housing or where depreciation of existing property will demand further replacement, per-manent units that will become an orderly part of the community are being programmed, he said.

National Interest.

"In this way," Palmer pointed out, "our newly erected homes will serve a national interest not only from the standpoint of de-fense, but also an interest directly related to our social obligations in providing decent living accommodations for ill-housed families."

ermanent government housing is being limited to the amount that can be readily absorbed by the locality. In many places, according to Palmer, this amounts to a substantial number of dwelling units because of the dearth of new building during the past decade.

Most of this government defense housing will be used either over a long period of sustained defense activity, or, when no longer need-ed for that purpose, will shelter very low income families who cannot be reached by private enterprise.

"In contrast to this long-term need," Palmer continued, "there are some cases where the bulge in defense employment is purely of a temporary nature and where the community cannot be expected to absorb the houses permanently. In such instances we are propos-ing the construction of demountable units which will ne her become burdens on local real estate markets nor the 'ghost towns' of the present emergency.

Needs Anticipated. "Such units, constituting an ever increasing part of the pro-gram, will always be available for new needs that may arise during following the present crisis. "In no case," Palmer concluded, "will defense housing units be dumped on the market helter skelter. Rather, their disposition will be in accordance with a co-ordi-the best interests of the p blic. "Where communities have be-come overloaded with substandard such interests probably would be served by incorporating the new defense homes into the general community plan. This could be accomplished by the demolition of an equal or larger number of obsolete units."

Bill Would Stop 'Repeater' Votes

Senator C. T. Guyton, of Guyton, introduced a bill in the state senate yesterday that would require all voters to sign their names on a "voters' identification book" before casting their ballots. Guyton said the law would prevent ',repeaters" and tend to keep elections on "an honest basis." The books would be supplied by county ordinaries to each election manager.

When the manager filed his returns, he would also produce the identification book which would remain open to public inspection for two years after the election.

W. C. Davis, Married 58 Years, Never Mad With Wife.

By CAROLYN McKENZIE.

If you like this old life and want it to last a long time then try this new way. It's simple, if you're an even tempered sort. It consists of just this one little rule never get mad.

It's a successful formula, the one W. C. Davis uses, and he cele-brated his 91st birthday yesterday; so there must be something

He has been married for 58 years—to the same woman—and, unbelievable as it seems, he can't remember ever being mad with her, nor even slightly irritated. The couple have devoted their entire lives to teaching the gospe as they interpret it. They don't favor any particular creed though they're Methodists. They just want to tell everyone about this religious view on life-just as they see it. Mr. Davis, now retired, though quite active, was once a Methodist minister. Now he's handed his books over to his wife who is six years his junior.

They put everything into their religion. They think the right person will come along some day -if you live right. They think you'll never beg, nor be hungry, nor cold—if you live right.

In his early twenties W. C. Davis was judge of the superior court of Putnam county, then he had a call to preach and so he devoted the remainder of his working life to that profession. Now he spends his leisure hours listening to the radio, to news casts, political and educational bumped over white mountains and black valleys for a while. Then we swung south to hit the coastline. The job was mainly to look for Italian submarines lurking near the coast or, maybe, a destroyer or two reported in the area recently.

Sighting Submarines. Below, the sea was a deep blue with white flicks of tiny, willful waves licking the surface. Every change in the sea bed's contour was marked by a change in the color of the sea. From a great height, it is a submarine's give-away because a submarine's shape is easily picked out against a light background. I could see the observer lying flat on his belly in the nose of the plane, raking the area with powerful glasses. Normally, a zig-zag course is followed in reconnoitering, but we had been given a set course, mostly one way.

However, we patrolled sometimes, in given areas, flying back and forth along the coast. We did this for more than an hour. Tiny clouds in string formation made small shadows on the sea which, occasionally, looked like some ship or submarine. Then we dived low to investigate, skimming the sea closely and circling around the spot until we could be sure it was only shadow.

Once we saw a plane. We hung in the sun so it could not see us, but it was too far away to identify. It could have been a stray Italian flying boat on patrol or a similar Birtish plane.

I heard my earphones crackle. The pilot was saying, "We met an Italian flying boat last week. He was flying low on the sea. We had a couple of bombs in the rack, so we flew over him and bombed him. You should have seen him. He started careening all over the place, he was so scared. A couple went near him and must have punctured him. The plane we had seen soon disappeared, and we went back to our course. We flew for perhaps another hour. Then, the first part of the flight ended as we came back over land put down on a southern Greek airfield. We had seen nothing except one unidentified plane the whole day.

That night, I slept is the airdrome. Early in the morning, I started again, this time in another plane. It was bigger and a dualpurpose machine. It rumbled deep across the flat drome and roared high into the sky. We were heading south or southeast for Egypt now. The white-brown of Greece's rocky coastline shaded itself into the horizon as we got higher.

The job now was a straight patrol across a given strip of sea. The higher we climbed, the deeper we could see into the sea. Away out beyond the Greek islands, I saw three specks moving in line on the sea. We came down a few thousand feet. The observer in spected the specks through his glasses. "They may be motor "orpedo boats," I heard him say. So we came down another couple thousand feet. "They are M.

DEVIL'S WORK

Fleming Stone Finds Vivian's Will In a Reel From Jean's Sewing Drawer

Jean Selden, in love with Brandon Sayre, an explorer, is dazzled by Vivian Forrest's wealth and ardent love-making, and married him. Vivian is imperious, makes no secret of his various love affairs and after two years Jean despises him but most consider her baby Florimel. Sayre is a member of a house party at palatial Forrest Fell on Long Island and Jean knows her love for him is not dead. Other guests are Peter Haskell, Ann Fraser and Suzy Kirk. They, as well as Vivian's half-brother, Austin, are practicing for a fencing tournament. Then Vivian brings as a guest Esmeralda Fance, a pretty movie actress, ordering that Florimel's choice nursery rooms be turned over to her. Later he tells Jean that Esme is to be a permanent member of the household. He insists upon a daily 15-minute fencing practice with Jean, who also is an expert. As she leaves one night after fencing, his guests notice that Vivian totters, then he falls dead. Medical Examiner Peterson, District Attorney Mitchell and Police Inspector Eastman question Jean closely. There is a small foil wound on Vivian's neck, but indications are that morphine caused death. A lawyer named Campbell has a letter Vivian left with him stating that he hid his last will in his study, but a long search is fruitless. Esme says she has a promissory note for a million dollars, signed by Vivian, but when she opens a safe deposit box there is only a piece of blank paper. Esme goes to Jean, declares there is no will—it's a Joke, too—and say she has a plan by which she and Jean can share the Forrest millions. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

"The point of it is," Jean said, "that the will is in a place not hard to get at. It is, as Vivian expressed it, something like 'The Purloined Letter'—you know, Poe's story. He said he meant that the will is not exactly in plain sight, but the container is. He said a little search ought to find it, and that we needn't go through the books, because it is not in a book."

Refugees on Wdy.

Six months after starting for Argentina a group of French and Spanish refugees arrived in Buenos Aires on the Katiola, first French ship to enter the port since France capitulated. Originally they sailed on the Groix to Casabara and a wild bear shared the same tree when chased by a fierce tiger, according to Nicolas Biakov, leading authority on wild life in Manchuria, who aided in the rescue of the two perchers. As reported from Mukden, Biakov and a trapper came upon the man and they sailed on the Groix to Casabara with fear, in an they sailed on the Groix to Casa-blanca, West Morocco, Africa, and remained there until the Katiola, tiger crouched on the snow below. which left Bordeaux November 1, The trapper shot the tiger at 150

Matter of Wife Dependency Entirely Up To Local Board

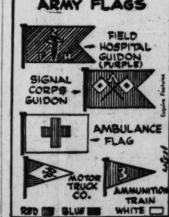

By Capt. Gene Morgan.

"How far back will the draft board go in investigating the dependency of my wife? Will they check to find out just when she stopped working?"

In filling out the questionnaire you have to tell when your wife became dependent upon you. Thus it is comparatively easy for the board to determine when she stopped working. And, of course, the board can ask you right out if there is any doubt.

Remember, that after all this whole matter of wife dependency s almost completely up to the interpretation of your own local draft board. Even if a wife had been working and is still capable of working, there is nothing in the selective service act or regulations whereby a local board can compel a wife to get a job and thus put her husband in Class I-A. If the wife is not working and has no independent means of income, then there is no question but that she is dependent. I would not worry as the local boards have all, as a rule, been making very fair decisions. In most cases they lean toward and favor the registrant.

Grand Jurors Report Today

Representative Testifies Before Probers.

After questioning more than a dozen witnesses-one of whom was O. D. Jackson, a representative of the state department of banking—the Fulton county grand jury yesterday postponed until today action on 21 indictments charging Atlanta salary buyers with having charged illegal rates

Victor K. Meador, chairman of the usury committee of the Atlanta Bar Association, also was a witness. The others who testified were alleged victims of the firms, officials said.

It was understood Jackson told the jurors that none of the con-cerns mentioned in the indict-ments had proper licenses for the kind of business they were doing.

The grand jury will make its presentments today, bringing to a close a two months' probe into Free Premium Coupons In Every Bag city and county affairs.

"I guess his number wasn't up

These words came yesterday afternoon from Mrs. Eddie Rick-enbacker, wife of the airline executive and former World War ace, upon her arrival at his bedside in Piedmont hospital; following a dramatic dash from Charlotte, North Carolina.

"I'm happy my husband escaped with his life and want to express gratitude to all who have shown interest in him and sincere sympathy to the bereaved," she added. Speeded to Atlanta.

Mrs. Rickenbacker was visiting at the home of Mrs. O. Y. Kirkpatrick when she received news of the crash. She immediately set out for Atlanta by automobile.

Marton Funkhouser, city traffic manager of the line at Charlotte, drove the car. At the Georgia-South Carolina line the car was met by Troopers G. M. Stokes and W. H. Brown, of the Georgia Highway Patrol.

The trip from Charlotte to Atlanta—a distance of 273 miles—was made in running time of four hours and 15 minutes. Actual time on the road was four hours and 40 minutes, but three stops were made en route.

They Save Food Flavors

7-Pc. Set for Only

Sixth Floor

"Saucettes" are brand-new! Get them for yourself-give them for gifts. They cook the waterless way, on low heat. They serve it, too ... with silvery smartness. And they keep food hot on the table. If bought separately, 1-quart size is 3.15, 1½-quart 3.45 and the 2-quart 3.95. Or, you get these three pieces in the entire set for 19.94, which also includes 10½-in. frying pan, 10-in. griddle, 4½-quart Dutch oven, rack for top-stove baking and two packages cleaner. If bought separately the set would cost you 22.79.
